"MarketBeat provides an excellent picture of the investment marketplace. The service provides up to date information on business activities and is an exceptional tool assisting investors in making timely stock market purchase and sale decisions."

"MarketBeat is the best resource I have found for research. Unlike most similar services it is not pushing their agenda or trying to up sell you on a premium membership to get in on a “hot tip”. This membership is a great value for a great service."

Kevin H.★★★★★

"The information provided on my holdings everyday and the texts help me keep on top of my holdings and work as a guide to changes needed."

Bob A.★★★★★

"First, I rarely give any company 5 stars, but felt compelled to here because of the customer service, I have corresponded with them on several occasions, none real serious. Twice because the news AI that supplies their News Alerts for  picked up more stories on BB guns than on the bank and an AI thinks SO (*), a Georgia power company was anything about any southern company or about anything southern California. Both were responded to promptly and filters were added to those two stocks, Any time I’ve had correspondence with them the reply was always prompt, professional, and solved the situation. The big thing that gets high marks from me is the customer service, so far at least 3 of their team have personally responded with emails well beyond business hours, once as late as 10PM Eastern time. The information they supply is vast and good stuff, almost to the point of being overwhelming. If there is anything negative it would be that I have been around trading for 20 plus years and am familiar with a lot of the “partners”. I guess you could call it personal experience, but there are several I do not trust their products, nor their opinions. In total, I feel MarketBeat does a good job and a good value."

Native display ads, newsletter sponsorships, email blasts, SMS and web push notifications are effective ways to connect directly with financial readers looking for timely news and financial solutions.

Email Marketing

EMAIL BLASTS
Email blasts offer a powerful way to communicate your custom message to our wide audience of individual investors, financial advisors, and research analysts. Use a dedicated email blast through MarketBeat to promote a new product or service, generate leads, invite readers to an event or webinar, or promote investing guides, whitepapers, and industry reports. Email blasts are sold on a cost-per-click basis with half-list sends possible, making them a cost-effective way to reach active investors.

EMAIL NEWSLETTER SPONSORSHIP
MarketBeat publishes a daily stock newsletter called MarketBeat Daily, that contains a daily update of the most important financial news for each subscriber’s individual stock portfolios. Newsletter sponsorships are sold on a cost-per-click basis, making them a cost-effective way to reach engaged users in their inbox and recruit customers for your company’s products and services.
